New Church at Hyde Park.

An application was made to the Presbytery of Chicago (New Selfeed) at their late session, from a number of discount at Hyde Park, asking to be organized into a Church. A committee of Clergymen was chosen from the hook, and on Sabbath affirmoon last, the nest little house of worship in that beautiful suburb was well silled, and theshervices were of the most impressive and interesting character.

A discourse was delivered by Rev. Z. M. Humphrey of the Pirst Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. Patterson of the Second Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Mt. Spencer of the Westmin ter Church, also aided in the exercises, the former as Chairman, the latter as Secretary of former as Chairman, the latter as Secretary of the formal business secting in which the organ ization was effected. The applicants had been gathered from the several Presbyterias Charches of our city, still our citizens, but per maneut residents in this suburban village. The

SENT HOME AGAIN.—We find the following in the Eikhorn Independent:

Our readers will remember that a week or two nines, Geo. Hubbard of Springfield, was arrested and upon examination held to buil for the acdusties of a young girl. The girl was taken freum him and tops by a family in this village. On Sunday last the ran away to Springfield, and freum Springfield alse was spirited away, for obvious reasons. Sheriff Stone, immediately upon learning of tur absence, put the wires to work, and yesterday he received notice from the Chicago potter that the girl was enaght, and awaited his order. The Sheriff left for Chicago yesterday, and the girl will in future be safe from those desinterested friends who paid her fare, and sent her a helpless wanderer, to walk the pave in Chicago.

Yet let me say that Eastman Johnson, who hast year carried off the honers of the Richibition, and took Art-lovers by storm, with his wonderful years painting of a plantation yard and riegro family, wears the laurel this year also. Discussing the conventionalisms of the clid World schools, Johnson seines American subjects, and treats them in a purely American, realistic mode. Charles Elliott, the prince of portrait-painters, whose income, if he would only work and lead a regular life, might easily be "the thousand a year," now stands a very fair chance of axpulsion from the indiversity of the Academy. The exhibition rooms' are small, badly lighted, and altogether unfit for the annual above. It follows, therefore, that, nice-tourth of the pictures are in must be wrichedly located by the first, Elliott, in one of his perturbed moments, rushed to the Academy, and, in the presence of hundreds of visitors, deliberately cut his picture from the frame, and wrote some intended great excitement. So much for the bills that have become isws. Among those not passed, we have first the one cent terry bill, to defeat which $3,000 were spent; and it would have cost a good deal more only for the mismanagement of an agent on the other side. Although he went to Albany furnished, with $20,000 to carry it threach, he attempted to drive so hard a bargain, in order, as was an appeted, to poched all that he saved, that finally the enemies of the bill were able to defeat it for the amaller sum of $3,000. THE LATIN VERSION. Ex anotoritate Dei Ounipotentis, Patris, e

The Japanese Ambassador first came on board the steamer Powhatan on Saturday, the 14th of January last, for the purpose of inspecting their accommodations. On the following Monday at noon, they came for good and were received with a salute and other honors. They came without any pomp or parade, and though dignified in their bearing, they gave no oridence of pride; but rather evinced timidity at their new position. Stepping for the first time upon the deek of a steamer waiting to bear them over an ocean of which they knew nothing; to a country, their knowledge of which was very limited, and being received by all the officers in fall uniform; and the marines presenting their bright arms, it would have been strange if even brave men should not have been alltitle embarrassed by the seene and the thoughts which all this brought Maledicant illum (os) sacra-chori, que mundi vana causa respuenda contempserunt. The Japanese method of fitting out their rooms and victualizing themselves, is somewhat peculiar to Japan, especially roots, some of which are two or three feet long. Rice is the main article of consumption. They eat bitter bread but no meat, while there is no end to the little dishes and nice things they take with them.—A galley or kitchen is prepared for their especial use. Their mats are cut to fit the room and are about three inches thick. For bedding they wear their winter cloaks, which are made of silk or cotton and stuffed with cotton to the thickness of an erdinary bed quilt. The arms The first Ambassador is only 35 years eld.
The second is all of 55, and the Counsellor about he same age. All of them are Princes, but not hereditary, and they are among the most distinguished statemen in Japan.
The rumor that some of the Embassy were sent as spies on the others is incorrect. The Counselor is only sent ta oid the others by his wisdom and experience. He is a short man, but well formed, and his countenance is intelled.

Begin with a clear conception that the subof deepest interest to an average human g is hisaself; next to that, he is most con-ed about his neighbors. Asia and the Ton-slands stand a long way after these in his ard. It does seem to me that most country good foke. "Of course they have, but the best of it is that it takes fewer votes to pass a bill after a vote than before. The siy fellows have fixed it in the Constitution. I never thought so well of a Constitution. See how ingenious fits. It takes a majority of all the Senators elected to pass a bill at first. Out of thirty-two that sex utires seventeen. But after a vote, only two-thirds of the niember present are required. If enough happen to step out and there are only eighteen present, twelve can do the job. Thus a great country."
